37 CFR Part 1
[Docket No. 941087-4287]

RIN 0651-AA52

Amendment to Rules for Extension of Patent Term

Agency: Patent and Trademark Office, Commerce.
Action: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.
Summary: The Patent and Trademark Office (Office) proposes to amend the rules directed to the extension of patent term to implement the provisions of Pub. L. No. 103-179 (December 3, 1993) and to clarify the requirements for eligibility. The proposed rules establish procedures for the Commissioner to issue an interim extension of the term of a patent where the original term would expire before a product covered by the patent has received regulatory approval for commercial marketing or use. The rules also are proposed to be amended to clarify that an application for patent term extension must be based on regulatory activities performed by the patent owner or its agent.
Dates: Written comments must be submitted on or before January 12, 1995. There will be no oral hearing.
Address: Address written comments to Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231 marked to the attention of Charles E. Van Horn, Deputy Assistant Commissioner for Patent Policy and Projects, or by FAX to (703) 305-8825.

For Further Information Contact: Charles E. Van Horn by telephone at (703) 305-9054 or Gerald A. Dost by telephone at (703) 305-9282 or by mail addressed to Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks, Washington, D.C. 20231 marked to the attention of Charles E. Van Horn, Deputy Assistant Commissioner for Patent Policy and Projects, or by FAX to (703) 305-8825.

Supplementary Information: Patent term extension has been available under 35 U.S.C. § 156 for patents that claim certain products that are subject to regulatory review before being commercially marketed or used. Prior to enactment of Pub. L. No. 103-179, eligibility for patent term extension was dependent on regulatory approval of the product before the original patent term expired. Pub. L. No. 103-179 has made it possible, under appropriate circumstances, to obtain interim extensions of patent term where the regulatory process is likely to extend beyond the expiration of the patent term.

One purpose of the proposed rule change is to revise the present regulations contained in 37 C.F.R. Part 1, Subpart F, to include provisions for interim extension of the patent term prior to regulatory approval of the product that can now form the basis of patent term extension. These proposed rules set forth procedures that govern the content and submission of applications for an interim extension of a patent term, and procedures governing the interim extension determination and issuance of interim patent term extension certificates by the Office.

Initial guidelines directed to the preparation and filing of applications for interim extensions of patent terms as authorized by Pub. L. 103-179 were published as "Guidelines For Interim Extension Under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5) of a Patent Term Prior To Regulatory Approval of a Product For Commercial Marketing or Use - Public Law 103-179 (December 3, 1993)" in the Official Gazette at 1159 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 12 (February 1, 1994). It is intended that those guidelines will continue in effect until the promulgation of final rules based on the proposed rulemaking.

It is important to keep in mind the distinction between an interim patent term extension under § 156(e)(2) and the interim patent term extension provided for by Pub. L. No. 103-179 under § 156(d)(5). The former applies after regulatory approval has occurred and is addressed in 37 C.F.R. § 1.760. Interim patent term extensions under § 156(e)(2) are not affected by the proposed changes to the rules. The latter applies before regulatory approval has occurred and is addressed in 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.780 and 1.790.

The eligibility criteria for obtaining an interim extension under § 156(d)(5) are substantially the same as for obtaining patent term extension under § 156 after regulatory approval has occurred. Under the provisions of Pub. L. No. 103-179, a patent owner or its agent may submit an application for an interim patent term extension within six months, but not later than 15 days, of the original expiration date of the patent. At the time the application is submitted, the regulatory review period must have advanced to the approval phase as defined in § 156(g), but must not have ended. For a new drug, for example, the approval phase is defined in § 156(g)(1)(B)(ii) as the period beginning on the date a new drug application was initially submitted for the new drug under section 505 of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

The content of the application for interim extension is proposed to be the same as for an application for patent term extension following regulatory review, with certain modifications necessitated by the circumstances. For example, the application for interim term extension will not be required to contain information about regulatory approval since that event has not occurred. A fee is proposed for each interim extension application filed before regulatory approval occurs - $400.00 for the initial application for interim extension and $200.00 for each supplementary application for interim extension.

The processing of an application for interim patent term extension under Pub. L. No. 103-179 will not require transmission of a copy of the application to the regulatory agency. However, it is contemplated that the Office will consult with the regulatory agency, as it has been doing for the past 10 years under § 156, on the question of eligibility for patent term extension.

If the patent is eligible for extension but for the fact that it is still under regulatory review, the Office can extend the patent term in one-year increments not to exceed five years from the expiration date. Any such extension would terminate 60 days after market approval. Before the 60-day period expires, the patentee could submit an application for patent term extension, supplying any additional information necessary to obtain any additional extension available under § 156.

The interim extension of patent term available under § 156(d)(5) cannot exceed the extension from the original patent term that would be available after regulatory approval. Thus, for example, a patent that was subject to the two-year extension limitation of § 156(g)(6)(C), could not obtain interim extension beyond two years from the original patent term expiration date. However, after an interim extension under § 156(d)(5) has been granted, the amount of patent term extension available after regulatory review is controlled by either § 156(d)(5) or § 156(g)(6)(A) or (B). In no case would the extension go beyond five years from the original expiration date of the patent. However, for those situations falling under § 156(g)(6)(C), where regulatory approval occurs within the two-year period after the original expiration date of the patent, the extension after approval is measured from the date on which the product receives permission for commercial marketing or use. § 156(d)(5)(E)(ii).

Review of recent applications for patent term extension has revealed that the provisions of 37 C.F.R. § 1.785(c) may be read as being inconsistent with 35 U.S.C. § 156. The statute requires that an application for patent term extension be filed by the patent owner or its agent. 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(1). The statute further requires under § 156(d)(1)(D) a description of the activities undertaken by the applicant (i.e., the patent owner or its agent) during the regulatory review period, and specifies in § 156(d)(2)(B)(i) that the lack of due diligence by the applicant during the regulatory review period may be taken into account. Given these statutory requirements, the Office has held that in order to be eligible for patent term extension, the patent owner or its agent must have undertaken the activities that lead to regulatory approval. If a patent owner has not been involved, either directly or indirectly, in the regulatory review process, that patent owner has not lost any effective patent life since it never invested time and resources necessary to obtain approval for commercial marketing or use. Accordingly, to the extent that § 1.785 could be interpreted to permit a patent owner to obtain a patent term extension where neither the patent owner nor its agent were responsible for activities leading to regulatory approval, it was misleading and contrary to both the letter and intent of § 156.

Discussion of Specific Rules:

Section 1.750, if amended as proposed, would be changed to also provide for an eligibility determination which will be made on applications for interim extension filed in compliance with § 1.790. The section is further modified to limit the mailing of a notice of a final determination to applications filed in compliance with § 1.740 after the regulatory approval process is complete.

Section 1.760, if amended as proposed, would have the title recite that the section is directed to requests for interim extensions of patent term under 35 U.S.C. § 156(e)(2), to distinguish it from interim extensions available under Pub. Law. No. 103-179, proposed to be addressed in § 1.780.

Section 1.765(a), if amended as proposed, would change the phrase (two occurrences) "the Office of the Secretary" to read "the Office or the Secretary." The change provides that the applicant has a duty of disclosure to both the Patent and Trademark Office and the Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Secretary of Agriculture.

Section 1.780, if amended as proposed, would provide that a certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5) will be issued to the applicant. Section 1.780 would also provide for notification of the issuance of the certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5), including the identity of the product currently under regulatory review, to be published in the Federal Register.

Section 1.785, if amended as proposed, would require the applicant for extension, i.e., the patent owner or its agent, to also have been the marketing applicant who obtained regulatory approval of the product for commercial marketing or use. While regulatory approval can be obtained by a party other than the patent owner, that other party must have been an agent of the patent owner when obtaining the regulatory approval in order for the patent owner to be eligible to apply for extension of the patent term.

Section 1.790, if added as proposed, would provide for one or more interim extensions for periods of up to one year for patents where the applicable regulatory review period described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii), (2)(B)(ii), (3)(B)(ii), (4)(B)(ii), or (5)(B)(ii) of section 156(g) that began for the patented product may extend beyond the expiration of the patent term in effect.

Paragraph (a) of proposed § 1.790 defines the time periods in which the initial interim extension application and each subsequent interim extension application must be filed in the Office. In no event will interim extensions be granted under proposed § 1.790 for a period of extension longer than that to which the applicant would be entitled to under 35 U.S.C. § 156(c).

Paragraph (b) of proposed § 1.790 would establish that the content requirements for the initial interim extension applications are substantially the same as the content requirements for a formal application for extension of patent term under § 1.740 and a complete application under § 1.741, except that the content requirements relate to a product currently undergoing regulatory review. In other words, the interim extension applications contain information available to the patent owner or its agent at the time the application is filed.

Paragraph (c) of proposed § 1.790 permits each interim extension application after the initial interim extension application to be limited to a request for a subsequent interim extension along with a statement that the regulatory review period has not been completed and any materials or information required under §§ 1.740 and 1.741 not present in the preceding interim extension application.

Section § 1.795, if added as proposed, would provide that any interim extension granted under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5) terminates at the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the product involved receives permission for commercial marketing or use. If within that 60-day period the patent owner or its agent files additional information required under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(1) not contained in the applications for interim extension, the patent shall be further extended in accordance with the provisions of 35 U.S.C. § 156.

Other Considerations:

The proposed rule changes are in conformity with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. § 601 et seq., E. O. 12612, and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq. The proposed rule changes have been determined to be not significant for the purposes of E.O. 12866.

The General Counsel of the Department of Commerce has certified to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy, Small Business Administration, that the proposed rule changes will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. § 605(b)), because the proposed rules would affect only a very small number of patents eligible for interim patent term extension.

The Office has also determined that this notice has no federalism implications affecting the relationship between the National Government and the States as outlined in E.O. 12612.

These rule changes will impose no substantial additional burden under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. § 3501 et seq. The paperwork burden imposed by adherence to the patent term extension rules is currently approved by the Office of Management and Budget under Control Number 0651-0020. Comments relating to this requirement should be directed to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Commerce, Patent and Trademark Office.

(3) Subsequent application for interim extension under § 1.790.....$200.00b

3. Section 1.750 is proposed to be revised to read as follows:

§ 1.750 Determination of eligibility for extension of patent term

A determination as to whether a patent is eligible for extension may be made by the Commissioner solely on the basis of the representations contained in the application for extension filed in compliance with § 1.740 cor § 1.790b. This determination may be delegated to appropriate Patent and Trademark Office officials and may be made at any time before the certificate of extension is issued. The Commissioner or other appropriate officials may require from applicant further information or make such independent inquiries as desired before a final determination is made on whether a patent is eligible for extension. cIn an application for extension filed in compliance with § 1.740, ab [A] notice will be mailed to applicant containing the determination as to the eligibility of the patent for extension and the period of time of the extension, if any. This notice shall constitute the final determination as to the eligibility and any period of extension of the patent. A single request for reconsideration of a final determination may be made if filed by the applicant within such time as may be set in the notice of final determination or, if no time is set, within one month from the date of the final determination. The time periods set forth herein are subject to the provisions of [37 CFR] c§b1.136.

4. In § 1.760, the heading is proposed to be revised to read as follows:

§ 1.760 Interim extension of patent term cunder 35 U.S.C. § 156(e)(2)b.

5. Section 1.765(a) is proposed to be revised to read as follows:

§ 1.765 Duty of disclosure in patent term extension proceedings.

(a) A duty of candor and good faith toward the Patent and Trademark Office and the Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Secretary of Agriculture rests on the patent owner or its agent, on each attorney or agent who represents the patent owner and on every other individual who is substantively involved on behalf of the patent owner in a patent term extension proceeding. All such individuals who are aware, or become aware, of material information adverse to a determination of entitlement to the extension sought, which has not been previously made of record in the patent term extension proceeding must bring such information to the attention of the Office [of] corb the Secretary, as appropriate, in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section, as soon as it is practical to do so after the individual becomes aware of the information. Information is material where there is a substantial likelihood that the Office [of] corb the Secretary would consider it important in determinations to be made in the patent term extension proceeding.

6. Section 1.780 is proposed to be revised to read as follows:

§ 1.780 Certificate of extension of patent term.

If a determination is made pursuant to § 1.750 that a patent is eligible for extension and that the term of the patent is to be extended, a certificate of extension, under seal, cor certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5)b will be issued to the applicant for the extension of the patent term. Such certificate will be recorded in the official file of the patent and will be considered as part of the original patent. Notification of the issuance of the certificate of extension will be published in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office. cNotification of the issuance of the certificate of interim extension under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5), including the identity of the product currently under regulatory review, will be published in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office and in the Federal Register.b No certificate of extension will be issued if the term of the patent cannot be extended, even though the patent is otherwise determined to be eligible for extension. In such situations the final determination made pursuant to § 1.750 will indicate that no certificate will issue.

7. Section 1.785 is proposed to be revised to read as follows:

§ 1.785 Multiple applications for extension of term of the same patent or of different patents for the same regulatory review period for a product

(a) Only one patent may be extended for a regulatory review period for any product (§ 1.720[(g)] c(h)b). If more than one application for extension of the same patent is filed, the certificate of extension of patent term, if appropriate, will be issued based upon the first filed application for extension.
(b) If more than one application for extension is filed by a single applicant which seeks the extension of the term of two or more patents based upon the same regulatory review period, and the [applications or] cpatents areb otherwise eligible for extension pursuant to the requirements of this subpart, in the absence of an election by the applicant, the certificate of extension of patent term, if appropriate, will be issued upon the application for extension of the patent ctermb having the earliest date of issuance of those patents for which extension is sought.
(c) If an application for extension is filed which seeks the extension of the term of a patent based upon the same regulatory review period as that relied upon in one or more applications for extension pursuant to the requirements of this subpart, the certificate of extension of patent term will be issued on the application only if [—

(1) The applicant for extension] cthe patent owner or its agentb is the holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period [, or

(2) The holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period is not an applicant and the applicant for extension holds express and exclusive authorization from the holder of the regulatory approval to rely upon the regulatory review period as the basis for the application for extension, or

(3) The holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period is not an applicant and no applicant for extension holds an express and exclusive authorization from the holder of the regulatory approval to rely upon the regulatory review period as the basis for the application for extension and the application is for extension of the patent having the earliest date of issuance of those patents for which extension is sought based upon the same regulatory review period].

(d) An application for extension shall be considered complete and formal regardless of whether it contains the identification of the holder of the regulatory approval granted with respect to the regulatory review period [or express and exclusive authorization from the holder of the regulatory approval to rely on the regulatory review period for extension]. When an application contains such information, or is amended to contain such information, it will be considered in determining whether an application is eligible for an extension under this section. A request may be made of any applicant to supply such information within a non-extendable period of not less than one (1) month whenever multiple applications for extension of more than one patent are received and rely upon the same regulatory review period. Failure to provide such information within the period for response set shall be regarded as conclusively establishing that the applicant is not the holder of the regulatory approval [and is not expressly and exclusively authorized by the holder of the regulatory approval to seek the extension being sought].
(e) Determinations made under this section shall be included in the notice of final determination of eligibility for extension of the patent term pursuant to § 1.750 and shall be regarded as part of that determination.

8. Section 1.790 is proposed to be added to read as follows:

c§ 1.790 Interim extension of patent term under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5).

(a) An owner of record of a patent or its agent who reasonably expects that the applicable regulatory review period described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii), (2)(B)(ii), (3)(B)(ii), (4)(B)(ii), or (5)(B)(ii) of subsection (g) of 35 U.S.C. 156 that began for a product that is the subject of such patent may extend beyond the expiration of the patent term in effect may submit one or more applications for interim extensions for periods of up to one year each. The initial application for interim extension must be filed during the period beginning 6 months and ending 15 days before the patent term is due to expire. Each subsequent application for interim extension must be filed during the period beginning 60 days before and ending 30 days before the expiration of the preceding interim extension. In no event will the interim extensions granted under this section be longer than the maximum period of extension to which the applicant would be entitled under 35 U.S.C. § 156(c).
(b) A complete application for interim extension under this section shall include all of the information required for a formal application under § 1.740 and a complete application under § 1.741. Sections (a)(1), (a)(2), (a)(4), and (a)(6) - (a)(17) of § 1.740 and § 1.741 shall be read in the context of a product currently undergoing regulatory review. Sections (a)(3) and (a)(5) of § 1.740 are not applicable to an application for interim extension under this section.
(c) The content of each subsequent interim extension application may be limited to a request for a subsequent interim extension along with a statement that the regulatory review period has not been completed and any materials or information required under § 1.740 and § 1.741 not present in the preceding interim extension application.b

9. Section 1.791 is proposed to be added to read as follows:

c§ 1.791 Termination of interim extension granted prior to regulatory approval of a product for commercial marketing or use.

Any interim extension granted under 35 U.S.C. § 156(d)(5) terminates at the end of the 60-day period beginning on the date on which the product involved receives permission for commercial marketing or use. If within that 60-day period the patent owner or its agent files an application for extension under § 1.740 and § 1.741 including any additional information required under U.S.C. § 156(d)(1) not contained in the application for interim extension, the patent shall be further extended in accordance with the provisions of 35 U.S.C. § 156.b

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents and Trademarks Available for Public Use in Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries (PTDLs), receive patent and trademark information in various formats from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Many PTDLs have on file all full-text patents issued since 1790, trademarks published since 1872, and select collections of foreign patents. All PTDLs have both the patent and trademark sections of the Official Gazette of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. The full-text utility and design patents are distributed numerically on 16 mm microfilm, and plant patents on color microfiche. Patent and trademark search systems on CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only) format are available at all PTDLs to increase utilization of and enhance access to the information found in patents and trademarks. It is through the CD-ROM systems that preliminary patent and trademark searches can be conducted through the numerically arranged collections.

All information is available for use by the public free of charge.

In addition, each PTDL offers reference publications which outline and provide access to the patent and trademark classification systems, as well as other documents and publications which supplement the basic search tools. PTDLs provide technical staff assistance in using all materials. Facilities for making paper copies of patent and trademark information are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent and trademark collections among the PTDLs, and their hours of service to the public vary, anyone contemplating use of these collections at a particular library is urged to contact that library in advance about its collections, services, and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 1.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).

SECTION 1.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).
